Summary

I believe data should empower people, not overwhelm them. That's why I focus on transforming complex business and operational data into clear, actionable insights that enable confident, informed decision-making. By combining analytics, storytelling, and digital transformation, I help organizations modernize how they use data and focus on what truly matters.

Across roles at MineSense, Beedie Executive Education, and AIESEC, I've applied this mindset to support digital transformation initiatives by building KPI dashboards, improving ERP and CRM processes, analyzing supply chain performance, and leading cross-functional projects. With hands-on experience in Power BI, Tableau, Python, Excel, and Salesforce, I design data-driven solutions that enhance visibility, streamline operations, and enable scalable, technology-led growth.
